QS WORLD UNIVERSITY RANKINGS 2026

NSU earns recognition across key disciplines

North South University (NSU) has continued to strengthen its academic reputation in the QS World University Rankings by Subject 2026, earning recognition across several key disciplines, said a press release.

This year, NSU's most notable achievement is in Economics and Econometrics, where it has been ranked in the 301-350 band globally, making it the top-ranked university in Bangladesh in this area.

NSU also performed well in Business and Management Studies (351-400), and Electrical and Electronic Engineering (401-450), where it stands as the top private university of the country.

In Social Sciences and Management, NSU has been placed in the 451-500 range, thereby continuing to hold its position as the top private university in Bangladesh in this area.

In Computer Science and Information Systems, NSU has been ranked in the 551-600 rank band, making it one of the top private universities here in this discipline.

NSU VC Prof Abdul Hannan Chowdhury said, "These results are a testament to the combined efforts of our faculty, students, researchers, and staff. The university will continue to strengthen academic excellence, research capacity, and global engagement to ensure greater opportunities for our community."
