NORTH South University on Thursday marked the advent of Bengali Spring as it hosted the 'Pitha Utsab and Basanta 1430', a celebration brimming with cultural performances and sweet delicacies of pitha.

Organised by NSU's Shangskritik Shangathan, the Bashundhara campus was adorned with charming decorations, homemade festoons, banners, and flyers, setting the scene for a joyful gathering, said a press release.

Students, dressed in bright colours and holding flowers, warmly welcomed Pohela Falgun, the harbinger of spring.

The NSU plaza buzzed with activity, featuring traditional dances, folk melodies, flash mob, and a sumptuous 'Pitha Utsab' showcasing a diverse array of sweet, savoury, and spicy pithas.

Renowned Rabindra Sangeet artist Rezwana Choudhury Bannya delivered an exceptional performance, setting the stage for a vibrant flash mob by the students.

Professor Atiqul Islam, vice-chancellor of NSU, inaugurated the festivities, emphasising the importance of preserving Bengali culture amidst a backdrop of evolving times.

Pahela Phalgun heralds the onset of spring in the Bengali calendar month of Falgun, symbolising renewal and vitality, and holds significance as the harbinger of the revered six-season cycle.
