

NSU, Police Staff College sign MoU

Staff Correspondent

NORTH South University and Police Staff College Bangladesh have signed a Memorandum of Understanding to formalise their partnership, which aims to promote enhanced cooperation in the areas of education, research, and professional development.

The signing ceremony took place at the premises of the Police Staff College in Dhaka on Tuesday, said a press release.

NSU was represented by its vice-chancellor professor Atiqul Islam, who led a distinguished delegation. On behalf of Police Staff College Bangladesh, rector Mallick Faqrul Islam headed the PSC delegation.

Prof Atiqul Islam said that this collaboration exemplified their commitment to fostering an environment of academic excellence and collaboration.

Mallick Faqrul Islam said that this MoU signified a strategic alliance between the two institutions, opening avenues for joint initiatives that would benefit not only students and faculty but also contribute to the broader educational landscape of Bangladesh.

The MoU outlines the shared commitment of NSU and PSC to advance their collaborative efforts in various key areas. Both institutions are dedicated to promoting joint research and publications, facilitating the exchange of faculty members and administrative staff, fostering the exchange of graduate students, providing internship opportunities for students, and sharing research outcomes and academic publications.

Representatives of North South University and Police Staff College Bangladesh pose for photos at a MoU signing ceremony at PSC premises in Dhaka on Tuesday.

— Press release

